Keynote Speakers

Prof Marilyn Waring (College Patron) PhD (Waikato). Professor of Public Policy, AUT University. Gender and governance adviser to the RAMSI mission in the Solomon Islands. Treasurer of the Association for Women's Rights in Development (AWID) and one of two international members of the Board of the Canadian Index for Well Being. Marilyn was elected to New Zealand Parliament at 23 and served 3 terms. Author of "Counting for Nothing: what men value and what women are worth" it was the subject of a best selling documentary made by the NFB Canada. "Who's Counting: Marilyn Waring on sex, lies and global economic".

Ms Rae Lamb, Deputy Health & Disability Commissioner Rae manages the teams responsible for the whole complaints resolution process, including the triage and assessment of complaints, referrals to advocacy, providers or other agencies, and investigations. Rae also has permanent delegated responsibility for some investigations including rest homes, nursing, pharmacy and dentistry. Prior to this, Rae was a journalist working primarily as a political reporter and then covering health for eight years as Radio New Zealand's health correspondent.

Prof David Sedhouse, Professor of Health and Social Ethics at Auckland University of Technology and Professor of Values Transparency at Staffordshire University, UK. CEO of VIDE Ltd – creators of the Values Exchange. Professor Sedhouse is best known for his writing on health and ethics, yet his work straddles many areas of social, philosophical and political concern. His primary interest now lies in the development of Values Exchange, designed to enable transparent decision-making in health care, local democracy and other social settings.

Symposium - Nursing and the Health of Older People: Practice, Policy and Partnerships. Focusing on how nursing can work in partnership to provide the best consumer-directed care possible.

This major Symposium is for all health care professionals working in areas contributing to the health of older people. You will hear from leaders within the full spectrum of aged care including consumer organisations, nurse practitioners, researchers and policy makers. The Symposium will bring together these key groups to create an excellent 2 day program considering up to the minute responses to older people's health care. Please join us for 2 days of stimulating papers, discussion and debate and the chance to meet and talk with a range of people involved in this area. This is a great opportunity for nurses and other interested health care professionals to gain valuable professional development hours, network with others and contribute to a blueprint for the future of nursing in the aged care sector. All attendees will receive a certificate for 14 hours professional development. The symposium program includes the College AGM for members.
